

The Experience of a Lifetime!

Travel for the solo woman over 50 ...

If not now ... when?

- You're a woman over 50 and you're fed up.
- You feel hopeless, frustrated and tired of doing what is expected of you.
- All your life you've been places and done things to please others.
- You're husband or partner doesn't want to go anywhere.
- You have a burning desire to travel and enjoy life to the fullest but you don't want to travel alone.
- Your girlfriends don't want to go to the places you would choose and you know you would feel frightened and unsafe travelling alone.
- You like cosmopolitan and cultured ... how do you find it?
- You like exotic and adventurous ... how do you find it?
- You resent having to pay single supplements.
- You're on your own.
- You don't want to take a 20 stop bus tour because that's all that's on offer.
- You don't want to see Europe in 10 days.
- You just don't want to go on a "tour".
- You want to experience something new and different.
- For once in your life you want to "Dream as if you will live forever; Live as if you will die today." (James Dean)
- There are places you have wanted to travel to all your life ... isn't it time for you to do that?
- Once you reach a certain age, putting a travel itinerary together for yourself, even if it's done by a travel agent, can be difficult; and the outcome may not be all you expect.
